

QC40 Capacity Assessment Training and Advance Health Directives

Summary

Dr John Allan

Thank you for completing these e-learning modules on capacity in advance health directives. The knowledge and skills that you have learned will form an essential part of your use of the Mental Health Act 2016, support patients, and their families and carers. This is an important responsibility that you need to incorporate into your interactions with your patients.

An AHD is one part of building a recovery-oriented practice. If you wish to further develop or practise your skills in relation to capacity assessment and advanced health directives, a toolkit is available, which can be used flexibly to enhance your learning.
